

Claims

1. A device for compressing flexible tubes containing pastes, creams and the like, provided with a receptacle for storing dental floss, comprised of a device (1) for compressing flexible tubes (2), the purpose of which is to expel pasty and creamy products from its interior (3), said device (1) being characterized by having a buckle shape (1A) in its straight bottom (4), being provided in one of its ends with a diagonally cut bevel (5), forming an end having a larger area, said device (1) being hollow from its bottom (4) along a narrow central slot (6) that makes out a gap, occupying almost the whole extension of its body (1) ; in the front side, the device (1) is provided with an oval-shaped receptacle (7) for winding up the dental floss (8), said receptacle (7) also being provided with a cap (9) and a lower cutting blade (10).